Many (but not all) Pride Flags

Abrosexual

Age Play

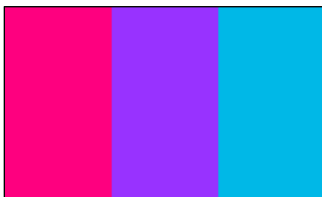

Age Play is a type of Kink Role Play where an adult person assumes the role and characteristics of a child.

Agender

Agender refers to a person who does not identify themselves as having a particular gender. Other words used to describe agender include gender-free, neutrois, gender blank, or genderless.

Androgyne

An androgynous person is someone who displays a combination of masculine and feminine characteristics into an ambiguous form. Androgyny may be stated with respect to biological sex, gender identity, and/or gender expression.

Aromantic

Aromantics have no interest in or desire for romantic relationships.

Asexual

An asexual person is someone who has no sexual feelings or desires or who is not sexually attracted to anyone.

BDSM Rights

BDSM Rights Flag is intended to represent the belief that people whose sexuality or relationship preferences include Bondage and Discipline, Dominance and Submission, or Sadism and Masochism ("BDSM") deserve the same human rights as everyone else, and should not be discriminated against for pursuing BDSM with consenting adults.

Bear

In gay culture, a bear is a larger and often hairier man who projects an image of rugged masculinity. Secondary sex attributes such as the growth of body hair and facial hair (which are typically considered "bear" characteristics) are celebrated in gay bear culture.

Bigender

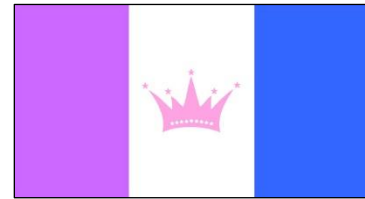

A bigender person is someone whose sense of personal identity encompasses two genders. It literally translates as 'two genders' or 'double gender,' and these genders could be male and female but could also combine non-binary identities.

Bisexual

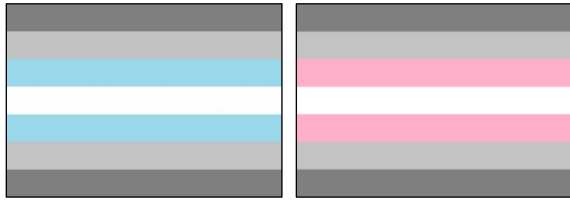

A bisexual person is someone who is sexually attracted to both men and women. Bisexuality may also be interpreted as a person with romantic or sexual attraction to people regardless of their sex or gender identity, how this is known more specifically as pansexuality.

Drag Pride Flag

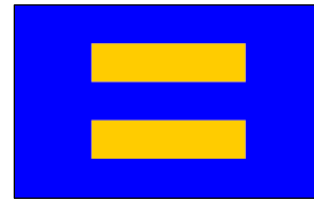

The term “drag” suggests a performance of masculinity, femininity, or other forms of gender expression. To ‘do drag’ is to dress up or exhibit yourself differently than your everyday expression, usually for performance. Common forms of drag are drag queens and drag kings.

Demiboy / Demigirl

A demiboy (sometimes known as a demiguy, demiman, demimale, or demidude person) is a person who identifies with aspects of masculinity—regardless of their sex assigned at birth. A demigirl (sometimes known as a demiwoman, demilady, or a demifemale person) is a person who identifies with aspects of femininity—regardless of their sex assigned at birth.

Demigender

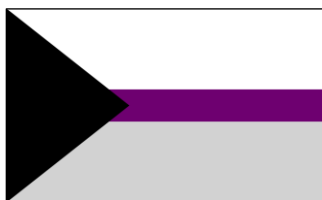

A demigender (from demi “half” + “gender”) is an umbrella term for nonbinary gender identities and denotes individuals who feel only a partial connection to a particular gender identity. The term covers demiboy and demigirl, along with a variety of other demi-gender identities.

Genderfluid

Genderfluid people experience gender fluctuations over time. For some genderfluid individuals, gender changes are arbitrary, while for some, they’re extreme.

Demisexual

A demisexual is someone who only experiences sexual attraction to people with whom they have close emotional connections. For demisexuals, sexual attraction can only come after an emotional bond has formed.

Genderflux

Genderflux is a catch-all phrase for gender identities in which one’s gender or sense of the intensity of one’s gender changes over time. A person who is genderflux experiences a range of intensity within a gender identity.

Genderqueer

A genderqueer person does not subscribe to conventional gender distinctions but still identifies with neither, both, or a combination of male and female genders. The term genderqueer is similar to nonbinary, but has a slightly different meaning and is best considered an umbrella term to cover any identity that isn't cisgender.

Graysexual

Graysexuality, also known as grey asexuality, gray-a, gray-ace, or grey-ace, is a word used to describe persons who identify as asexual but do not fall into one of the primary kinds of asexuality. Typically it is a person who experiences limited sexual attraction.

Intersex

Intersex is a term that may be used to describe a person with both male and female sex characteristics at birth. Many individuals born have several sex characteristics, including chromosome patterns, gonads, or genitals that, according to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, "do not fit typical binary notions of male or female bodies." It is estimated that around 1.7% of the population is born with intersex traits – analogous to the number of people born with red hair. Notwithstanding how common this is, the word intersex is still generally misunderstood, and intersex people are massively underrepresented.

LGBT Rainbow Pride

The LGBT rainbow flag represents lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer (LGBT) and queer pride, as well as LGBT social movements. The colors of the LGBT pride flag, also known as the gay pride flag or LGBT pride flag, depict the LGBT community's variety as well as the "spectrum" of human sexuality and gender.

LGBT Progress Pride

The Pride Progress Flag features black and brown stripes to portray marginalized LGBTQ+ communities of color and baby blue, pink and white to incorporate the trans flag in its design.

LGBT Progress Pride Intersex Inclusive Flag

A purple circle overlaid over a yellow triangle has been added to the chevron on the left side of the flag.

Leather Pride

The Leather flag has been connected with leather in general, as well as allied communities like the BDSM community.

Lesbian

A lesbian is someone who experiences sexual or romantic attraction to other women or between women. The term normally applies to women; however, some nonbinary people also identify with this term.

Master/Slave and Dom/Sub Flag

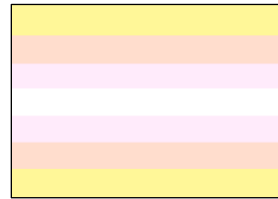

This is a flag to represent the relationships in a Master/Slave or Dominant/Submissive dynamic.

Neutrois

Neutrois is a gender identity that refers to gender neutrality, or neutral gender. It is typically interpreted as indifference to gender or even its absence (nullity), as in agender. The exact distinction between terminology like agender and neutrois is a point of contention. Some people use these phrases interchangeably; however, there is a distinction between them for others. One of the most commonly mentioned distinctions is that agender is the sense of having no gender at all, while neutrois is the feeling of having a gender identity that is neither male nor female but rather neutral.

Pangender

Pangender is someone who feels comfortable with different kinds of gender labels and whose gender identity is not limited to one gender and may encompass all genders at once. It comes with an understanding that the vast and diverse multiplicity of genders within the same individual can extend infinitely, always within the person's own culture and life experience, and may or may not include unknown genders.

Non-Binary

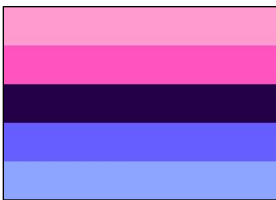

While the term "nonbinary" or "enby" can mean different things to different people, it is typically used to describe someone whose gender identity isn't exclusively male or female.

Pansexual

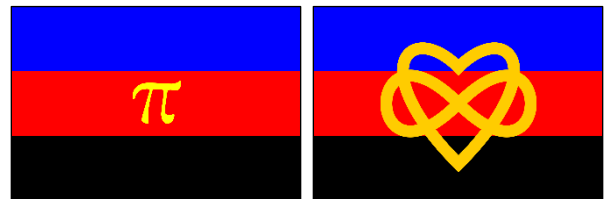

A pansexual is not limited in sexual choice concerning biological sex, gender, or gender identity. They will often refer to themselves as gender-blind, explaining that gender and sex do not determine their romantic or sexual attraction to others.

Omnisexual

An omnisexual is a person who has romantic, sexual, or affectional desires for people of all genders and sexes. This is similar to pansexuality; however, there are differences between these two terms. Omnisexual people are not gender blind, and they see and acknowledge gender. Omnisexual people are sexually attracted to different genders and sexual orientations, but unlike pansexuality, the gender of the people they are attracted to matters to some degree.

Polyamory

A polyamorous person desires or engages in multiple romantic (and typically sexual) relationships with the consent of all the people involved.

Ownership

A BDSM Flag for the purpose of symbolizing the ownership subculture of those who want to be owners or owned in a relationship.

Polysexual

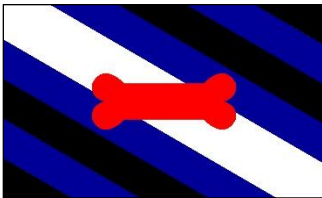

A polysexual person is someone who is sexually and/or romantically attracted to multiple genders. Sometimes, polysexuality is likened to other multi-sexual identities. One of the main differences between pansexual and omnisexual is that people who identify with these terms are attracted to all genders. On the other hand, a polysexual may not necessarily be attracted to all genders but may be attracted to many genders.

Pony Pride

Pony play is a type of role-play behavior in which adult humans adopt the characteristics of horses or ponies and can be considered under the wider BDSM umbrella.

Puppy Pride

Puppy (or pup) play is a type of role-play behavior in which adult humans adopt the characteristics of dogs (puppies, in particular) and can be considered under the wider BDSM umbrella.

Queer Pride

Queer is an identity in and of itself that more and more people are choosing to identify with. It is a sort of label for those who don't want to put themselves in a box. Often considered a movement, queer people are those who fall outside of and/or renounce the cultural norms around sexuality, gender identity, and/or gender expression.

Rubber Pride

Like many other kink communities, the rubber/latex fetish community members have a flag to express their preferences and passion. While popular with gay men and often seen at pride parades, rubber pride is not exclusive to any gender or sexuality.

Straight Ally

A straight ally is a cisgender or heterosexual person who recognizes the discrimination faced by the LGBTQ community due to their gender identity, expression, or sexual orientation. They are not themselves part of the queer rainbow family but support LGBTQ+ causes and fight for a more inclusive world.

Transgender

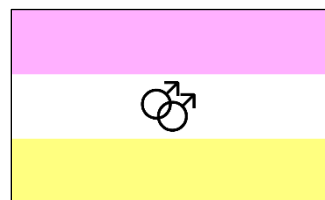

A transgender person is someone whose gender identity is different from the gender they were thought to be at birth.

Trigender

Trigender is a gender identity in which a person switches between or among several genders, including a third gender (genderless, a mix of masculine and feminine, or any other variety of genderqueer identities). Dependent on the individual's mood or environment, a trigender individual may change from one gender to another.

Twink Pride

Twinks are a subset of gay males that challenge traditional masculinity by adopting gendered and feminine characteristics. Physical appearance, preferences, display of traditionally gendered characteristics, and personal connection may all be used to describe twinks.
